VEEQO

ILLUSTRATION AND WEBDESIGN

The inventory and shipping platform Veeqo, needed illustrations and webpage designs for their complicated features, such as a mobile scanning app. The illustrations needed to translate complex functionality at a glance and the webpages needed to stand out against competitors.

Throughout the project, I undertook competitor and user research to understand what confused the user, what attracted them to Veeqo and where competitors were falling short.

After successful research results, we incorporated the illustrations and graphics style throughout the product, help guides and internal communication.

We also began A/B testing the designs, to understand the impact they were having, and saw an increase in interaction and conversion on the site.

VEEQO

SOCIAL MEDIA CAMPAIGN

Veeqo needed bold and eye catching designs for their social media campaign promoting new feature releases. These posts were released 3 times a week, requiring a consistent design and a layout where images and text could be swapped and changed easily. A banner was needed for their monthly product blog post, image to the left, keeping with the bright and bold theme. This would also be used as their SEO image for any product related searches for Veeqo.

HOUSEPLANT CARE INFOGRAPHS

House plants have become a staple to most homes, with an increase of sales over lockdown and each plant needing different care. I created infographics to post on social media to highlight 3-4 key care tips for different common house plants.

I then created a few for more uncommon plants, commissioned as prints for a local houseplant business. Changing the layout depending on the plant size and number of tips included.

PRINT AND ILLUSTRATIONS

These illustrations were developed during lockdown, after being put on furlough and feeling completely withdrawn from nature. After a successful response on social media I created an online store, where the prints have been bought internationally.

THE JAM POT FLOWER CO.

LOGO DESIGN

The Jam Pot Flower Company is a cut flower business based in Cornwall growing seasonal, sustainable cut flowers. They approached with the following brief for a logo design: 'Something quirky, not realistic or too 'proper', something that would make you smile. Style inspired by folk art or lino print.'

The logo was going to be made into a stamp, and printed on to business cards. After creating a few designs, the client decided to step away from the lino print inspiration to a bolder design, that would be easier to make in to a stamp.
